RE: RM10313

"It is inappropriate for any manufacture that sells a product in the United States of America and its territories, to produce a product knowing in advance the guidelines setforth of that product by the governing body at the city, state, county, or federal levels, to initiate a change in those guidelines in order to make a profit in the sell of that product".

Furthermore, it is the users of the product who are most familiar with the rules and guidelines of the product's use. If by chance users complaints to the governing body on the issue of the guidelines where of a significant volume and merit, it is at that point and time where the governing body would consider a change in the guidelines.

Sense it is the users who have NOT complaint in regards to the guidelines in the use of Auxiliary Station Operation, the issue of relaxing of Part 97 by Kenwood Corp. should be denied and closed.

NOTE: This is like having General Motors ask the government to exclude there new line of cars that have no wind shield because "wind shields create glare and therefore are unsafe...!"
